Distinctive Features of the Course:

The BA (Hons) Special Educational Needs, Disability and Inclusion Studies is designed to help you to develop the skills, knowledge and confidence to succeed in your studies with the University of Wolverhampton at degree level. The course is suitable for people new to this area or experienced staff searching for career development. We value and promote your individual engagement, progression and success as all of our staff will recognise and celebrate your unique learning needs. The curriculum in Special Educational Needs, Disability and Inclusion Studies will be relatable to you through our inclusive approaches to your teaching and learning experience.

The course at level 4, 5 and 6 offers a unique blend of theories and practices in relation to Special Educational Needs, Disability and Inclusion. We recognise that you will have a unique learning journey and we will maximise your potential through optional assessment choices such as presentations, written assessments, recursive feedback, peer mentoring, problem-solving approaches, reports and written plans.

Staff are active researchers and these interests contribute to high quality teaching, curriculum development and innovation which underpins the teaching and learning that you will experience. You will benefit from the latest research in the areas of Special Educational Needs, Disability and Inclusion, such as 'mental health and resilience,' 'critical disability,' 'inclusive pedagogy' and 'inclusive practice in the early years.' Your teaching team has a range of expertise and practice in Early Childhood, Special Educational Needs, Young People and Families and Education which will help you to make the link between your learning on the course and your experiences and practice.

Educational Aims of the Course:

As a student on this course will be able to identify and understand the challenges faced when trying to adopt an inclusive approach in all aspects of life, and how you can meet and address these challenges in a positive way as members of a diverse global society. You will have opportunities to consider a variety of issues and perspectives surrounding work with, and support for, disabled people and other vulnerable groups, and which as future professionals you will need to be able to recognise and address. You will study current policies, procedures and practice in order to develop inclusive professional and social approaches.

As you progress through your degree you will have opportunities to develop your critical capabilities through the selection, analysis and synthesis of relevant perspectives, and be able to justify different positions on matters relating to special educational needs, disability and inclusion. As a graduate you will be able to reflect on your own value systems, development and inclusive practices, question concepts and theories you have encountered in your studies and interrogate the assumptions underpinning research and your own practice

Placements are expected as part of the course and can be negotiated in a variety of educational and community settings.
