Entry Requirements:

Entry requirements are subject to regular review. The entry requirements applicable to a particular academic year will be published on the University website (and externally as appropriate e.g. UCAS)

- A first or second class Honours degree from a UK Higher Education Institution (HEI) or overseas equivalent in healthcare or medical sciences.
- A Medical Doctor or Healthcare Professional working in the healthcare industry e.g. NHS.
- Students will need to be working in the health context or have access to an appropriate placement, to comply with the requirements of some assessments within the regime.
- If English is not an applicant's first language they will be expected to demonstrate a certificated level of proficiency of at least IELTS 7.0 (Academic level), unless the primary medical qualification has been taught and examined in English.
- Students may apply for Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) subject to the guidelines set out by the University. RPL includes accreditation of prior certificated learning.
- A reference from a tutor who has supervised the applicants undergraduate or postgraduate studies (or equivalent).

Distinctive Features of the Course:

The MSc Clinical Medicine (Teaching & Learning) is a vocationally focused academic programme, intended to prepare doctors from the NHS to become effective professionals in the workplace and to develop and improve existing skills and knowledge. It is particularly of interest to those who wish to pursue a career in Medical Education. The course will offer the opportunity to engage with key CPD, but also to extend skills and personal development through the strands of self-awareness, application and innovation within their organisational context.

Educational Aims of the Course:

The MSc Clinical Medicine (Teaching and Learning) has been developed by practicing NHS Consultants and Health Academics in consultation with National Health Service (NHS) Trust Partners. The course is designed for Medical Doctors and other Healthcare Professionals who are looking to develop and refine their teaching and learning, research skills and develop understanding of effective teamwork and best practice. The MSc Clinical Medicine (Teaching and Learning) aims to enhance teaching, learning and research skills, thereby, facilitating personal and professional development and strengthening participants' ability to bring about positive change, solve problems effectively, and ensure patient safety.

The Teaching and Learning Masters will be differentiated from the other Masters routes by its structure, by the demonstration of a deepening understanding of self-development as a reflective learner and as a clinical teacher utilising modules 7ED001 (Critical Reflection & Reflexivity in Professional Learning) and 7HR013 (Design and Deliver Medical Education) and within the Masters dissertation in module 7HW015.

This course has a strong emphasis on the evaluation and development of both clinical practice, research, and encourages participants to reflect critically on workplace experiences and learning. For participants, the course aims to provide a clear framework which supports CPD, recognition of prior learning and work based learning.

The course aims to provide a route for Doctors who wish to take a different speciality, to change medical career routes and for Doctors seeking further accreditation of subspecialty expertise.

Teaching, Learning and Assessment:

The MSc Clinical Medicine (Teaching and Learning), is a vocationally focused academic programme, intended to prepare Doctors and other Healthcare Professionals from the NHS to become effective professionals in the workplace and to develop and improve existing skills and knowledge. The course will offer the opportunity to engage with key CPD, but also to extend skills and personal development through the strands of self-awareness, application and innovation within their organisational context, delivered by specialists from the Faculties of Social Sciences and Education, Health and Wellbeing, together with medical educators in the NHS context.

The student experience on this course will be set within a mixture of independent, group and tutor-led study facilitated by a range of classroom, laboratory and blended learning support.

Students will work alone and in groups to develop problem-solving skills; and a systematic approach to research, applied within their specialist area of study. Reflective practice will be utilised to facilitate the application of knowledge and research skills in the light of personal experience and literature-based evidence in the context of vocational and research opportunities.

For the independent research element of the course, students will be allocated a personal supervisor who will support their learning in order to advance their knowledge and critical awareness of current research and contemporary issues, within their specialist area of study.

The core requirements of General Medical Council (GMC), Good Medical Practice (2013), require self-directed learners that are able to continually develop and maintain their professional skills at the highest level.

Accordingly summative assessments will be based on:

- Presenting evidence and attainment of agreed objectives and outcomes.
- Assignments
- Work Based Learning Projects
- A research dissertation.

Assessment Methods:

At the University of Wolverhampton, a variety of modes of assessment will be used to support and test your learning and progress and to help you develop capabilities that are valued beyond your University studies and into your working life. Your course may include a variety of assessment activities:

Written examinations (including online examinations, open and closed book examinations and quizzes)
Coursework (for example, essays, reports, portfolios, project proposals and briefs, CVs, poster presentation)
Practical (for example, oral and video presentations, laboratory work, performances, practical skills assessment)

In the final year of your undergraduate degree, and at the end of your postgraduate degree, you are likely to be expected to write an extended piece of work or research, such as a dissertation or a practice-based piece of research.

Student Support:

Tutor support is available formally through individual appointments and at workshops. Electronic support is available via CANVAS and via email. Academic skills are developed through feedback on assessments and through individual appointments available with tutors. Workshops on thesis writing and viva voce examinations (including mock viva) will be made available.

Employability in the Curriculum:

Our offer will match your needs as an ambitious medical professional by putting you at the centre of learning. The course delivers a clear, flexible academic framework, allowing you to progress via a route that supports your busy schedule as a practitioner and enables you to study at a suitable time.
