Entry Requirements:

Entry requirements are subject to regular review. The entry requirements applicable to a particular academic year will be published on the University website (and externally as appropriate e.g. UCAS)

The entry requirements for the MBA (International Development) are:

- Any undergraduate degree from a UK university or overseas equivalent, or a professional qualification and/or experience considered to be equivalent to the above;
- A reference from a tutor who has supervised the applicant's undergraduate studies and/or employer;
- Please check our minimum language entry requirements/before submitting your application.
- We offer a range programmes in English as a Foreign Language if you don't meet these requirements
- Students may apply for recognition of prior learning (RPL) subject to the guidelines set out in the RPL Handbook. RPL includes accreditation of prior certificated learning and /or accreditation of prior experiential learning.

Applications are also welcome from individuals who do not possess the above qualifications but who have significant management experience and are able to demonstrate previous non-certificated learning equivalent to the above. In such cases, admission to the programme will be based on an evaluation of the applicant's ability to continue to benefit from and achieve the award.

Distinctive Features of the Course:

The MBA (International Development), a first of its kind to be offered in the UK, is a unique course that situates international business within the complex and dynamic global geopolitical and environmental context. The course will provide students with the opportunity to develop awareness of global and local issues, and understand how these are connected to business, government and international development. For example, in our Contemporary Issues in International Development module, students will critically examine the implications of the changing landscape of UK aid strategy on the UK's ability to deliver meaningful development results- and be stimulated to develop innovative solutions that engage the business sector in addressing challenges ranging from poverty and malnutrition, to education, maternal health and climate change.

Students in this course will gain theoretical and practical knowledge in Strategic Management, Human Resources and Leadership, Marketing Management, Finance and Independent Business Analysis in an international development setting. Our unique approach to this MBA is to help students develop confidence in applying skills and knowledge gained throughout this course to influence business decision making, accountability and social responsibility, as well as manage for business resilience and inclusive growth and development.

This course targets graduates working (or aspiring to work) in nternational development, and those with an interest in understanding how business can contribute to attaining the UN global Sustainable Development Goals. The course will also appeal to senior business leaders, seeking to gain an understanding of social, political and environmental issues that shape international development business, or those in charge of corporate social responsibility.

Educational Aims of the Course:

This course enables entry onto the MBA (International Development) if you did not gain a first or second class honours at degree level (or equivalent). It will add to your existing skills and knowledge providing you with enhanced understanding and abilities which will prepare you for Masters courses, whilst also providing English support if you need help in this area

The MBA (International Development) is a unique and ideal choice for anyone seeking to develop a career in managing business, leading programmes or projects in an international development context, or a combination of these two.

You will also expand your critical knowledge and strategic understanding of the current changes in both the business and geopolitical environment, and apply your learning to successfully lead resilient businesses with awareness of own impact locally and globally, and practical plan for effecting positive change through corporate social responsibility.

The programme is appropriately tailored to respond to the skills and knowledge needs of a range of learners, from practitioners in international development and business leaders from the corporate world, to those with limited work experience, or seeking to change professions. The diversity of the learning environment, with the majority of students coming from outside the UK, provides an ideal platform for engaging in stimulating discussions and innovative thinking on solutions to help business and international development agencies deliver global targets.

The delivery of your award is flexible options to study either full time or part-time learning over one and two years, respectively. By the end of the programme, you will have gained a critical understanding of the principles and concepts in business administration, and mastered key techniques and skills in designing and managing projects and programmes in any sector. The programme also emphasises development of generic business skills, including research, networking and effective communication.

The benefits of our programme include the following:

- You will develop critical skills in analysing the local and international development business environment, including the implications of geopolitics and environment, on business investment decisions;
- Benefit from case studies based on live projects and programmes managed by module leaders on this course;
- You will have the opportunity to work on live consultancy projects and simulations to hone your understanding and skills in designing and managing development projects, and practice working in and leading teams;
- Explore the influence of culture and technology in business in an international development context;
- Listen to and engage with latest thinking in international development and business through a seminar series;
- Build networks with equally minded colleagues for future collaborative work
- Gain skills to help business organisations manage social responsibility, including global goals, or support charities fundraise, design and deliver projects and programmes;
- Learn from our stimulating modern look Lord Swraj Paul Building at the City Campus, and be supported with latest books and journal articles.

In today's highly dynamic global environment, a complexity of factors, including technology, enterprise and innovation, have a significant impact on business systems and functions. With this in mind, full-time MBA students on the standard mode of delivery (i.e. classroom study and blended learning out of classroom activities) will join with peers from other postgraduate courses offered by University of Wolverhampton.

Those on the International Development route (co-delivered by the Business School and the Centre for International Development and Training) will take the Contemporary Issues in International Development (CIID) and the Project/Programme Management for International Development (PPMID) options, designed to expose students to the contemporary issues facing the developing world, and equip them with the practical skills to design, implement, monitor and evaluate international development projects and programmes, whether these be led by government, civil society, private sector or development aid (donor) institutions.

Teaching, Learning and Assessment:

Standard Delivery:

A variety of interactive learning activities will support the achievement of the course learning outcomes.

Learning will involve both classroom engagement and out of classroom activities including the use of blended learning environments. Flexible and interactive e-learning opportunities will be a feature of learning. Personal reflection and collaborative learning will be vital components of this course.

Students will encounter a number of learning activities during a variety of formal lectures, seminars and tutorials. The course will make use of techniques such as case studies, problem solving activities, discussions (both structured and unstructured), action learning sets, evaluation of online and documentary resources and guest speaker inputs.

Students will be expected, and directed, to read from a range of sources, including academic journals. Students will work autonomously as well as interactively within group exercises.

Both formative and summative assessment tasks will enhance opportunities for learning.

Where appropriate visiting speakers, external visits and real-time (as opposed to text book) case based activities will add a practical dimension to the learning process. Recognising the rich potential learning from the workplace, opportunities to work with organisations will be maximised.

Student Support:

In providing flexible to meet student needs, e-learning components will be designed to form an integral feature of the learning, teaching and support. The University VLE provides a platform for doing this and will be the primary focus of the online supported learning dimension of the module. In addition to making use of the online databases and other software resources available through LIS and ITS.

A Personal Tutor is allocated to every student. Personal Tutors maintain regular communication (virtual and/or face-to-face) with each of their designated tutees. Follow up meetings are arranged with students who are not making satisfactory progress or who are at risk of withdrawal. Personal Tutors assist students in their personal and academic development, planning and progression as well as offering students advice and guidance to help them liaise with other staff and support facilities in their school and the University, including study skills support.

The Course Leader will monitor the academic and experiential quality of the Course through Award Boards, focus groups and other channels. The Course Leader also supports and directs students proactively on the Course, both collectively and individually, and responds to inquiries and requests from students with regard to the academic programme of study.

The Special Needs Tutor (SNT) liaises with the Student Enabling Centre (SEC) regarding provision for specific disabled students & disseminates information from the SEC on the needs of specific disabled students. The SNT also monitors requests for, and provision of, specific examination and assessment arrangements, publicise SNT 'surgery' arrangements and make available time to meet with individual disabled students to enable them to discuss their own school-specific disability issues where necessary. The SNT takes a pro-active role in monitoring the welfare and academic progress of disabled students within the school.

Employability in the Curriculum:

Successful completion of the MBA (ID) provides a much sought after academic qualification which will enhance your career prospects in a number of managerial roles across a wide range of international business sectors. The MBA(ID) may provide the basis for further study in a range of professional subject areas such as accounting, marketing and human resources) as well as further academic study such as a PhD.
