Entry Requirements:

Entry requirements are subject to regular review. The entry requirements applicable to a particular academic year will be published on the University website (and externally as appropriate e.g. UCAS)

Students must usually have studied for a minimum of two years post GCSE level. However, we will consider applications from mature students who do not have two years of post-16 study, where they have relevant work experience. Please see <http://wlv.ac.uk/mature> for further information.

Younger applicants who do not meet the entry requirements may be asked to attend an interview and/or to provide a sample of their academic writing, or they may be offered an alternative course.

Students may apply for RPL and receive credit, subject to the guidelines set out in the University of Wolverhampton RPL guidelines.

Distinctive Features of the Course:

Foundation Year:

The course is taught by published writers whose books cover a wide range of creative, professional and critical disciplines (fiction, poetry, journalism, critical writing and scholarship etc.).

Special visiting lecturers from the world of publishing are invited to speak on modules, as are internationally renowned authors.

The Creative and Professional Writing team at Wolverhampton have pioneered the use of interactive web-based forums for teaching and assessment. These activities have proved very popular with students.

During the Foundation part of your degree, you can develop the skills and knowledge that you need to study at undergraduate level, building on your strengths and working on your weaknesses, so that you can feel confident that by the end you are ready to commence a degree course, and to apply the skills to undertake the directed and independent learning which will help you to achieve your potential. This will allow you to embark on Level 4 study in an appropriate undergraduate discipline or combined award, confident that you have developed the skills and chosen the most relevant subject area(s) to specialise in, which will allow you to perform strongly at degree level and enhance your career aims.

All of our foundation modules are taught in small subject-specific groups. Several of the modules on the foundation part of the degree are assessed via portfolio, so lots of tasks contribute to your final grade. This means that we can give you credit for the things that you do best, and give you support to identify areas of strength and areas for potential development.

For the foundation part of the degree you will study two taught modules per semester, in the autumn semester you will study one 40 credit study skills module, this is designed to help you get to grips with university life and to gain the skills you need to exceed at degree level. The other 20 credit module contains subject-specific content, so you begin learning your subject from day one. In the spring semester you will take one subject-specific module, plus your individual project, this guarantees you weekly one-to-one sessions with a subject-specific member of our team, in these sessions you will work with your tutor to develop your own project on what interests you the most. For the degree part of the course you will study three modules per semester.

You will be assigned an Academic Coach to help guide you through the first two years of your course. This person will help with study skills as well as offering advice on the transition to life at University.

Post Foundation Year:

We are one of a handful of universities to offer a dedicated single honours programme in Creative and Professional writing (many do not offer both elements). This means that you will explore the practice of writing both as a literary art and practical vocation alongside your complementary learning pathway in Film & Television Studies. This means that you will study writing for the page and screen, better preparing you for roles in the creative industries and in managing a portfolio career. We also offer various public performance opportunities via our student showcase platforms at Wolverhampton Literature Festival and Middleway Words, and a dedicated Writing Week – where all students come together as one writing community - that offers personal writing space alongside literary events and industry speakers.

Educational Aims of the Course:

The Foundation Year programme is devised to suit a variety of careers within the creative industries, in education, creative community project work, and in academic research.

This integrated joint programme provides the practice-led opportunity for students to develop their own talent for writing in both a creative and professional context, alongside the disciplined engagement with Film analysis and theory. We offer a supported, stimulating, and multicultural environment in which students can create different forms and styles of writing, whilst developing a scholarly understanding of film. The programme will introduce you to the relevant concepts and theories associated with writing and encourage you to work across disciplines. Our Writing Week platforms offers both dedicated writing spaces for personal and university-led projects, with access to authors and industry experts for careers guidance. This degree will not only nurture your practice by enabling you to understand the writing process but enable you to communicate more effectively, and, through informal workshops, enhance your own creative and critical judgement. Consequently, you will develop a range of vital transferable skills including presentation and oral performance; social media management and digital literacy; enterprise and entrepreneurship; project management and working collaboratively, all of which are of immense value in graduate employment and freelance/portfolio careers. With broad ranging reading lists, and diverse pedagogy we instil an heterodox approach to our course and focus on truly inclusive, viewpoint diverse education, including higher order conceptual and communication skills, enterprise, digital literacy and IT awareness, all of which are of immense value in graduate employment.

Modules

Teaching, Learning and Assessment:

Foundation Year: The course is taught via lectures, workshops, tutorials and seminars, it is assessed via coursework, which comprises of creative writing pieces, presentations, essays, group work, exams, and other essay-style pieces of writing.

Undergraduate Programme:

The traditional combination of lecture and seminar is accompanied and varied by other teaching and learning activities appropriate to particular modules. These include interactive lectures, individual and small group presentations, student-led seminars, small group and classroom exercises and discussions, writing workshops, forums and surgeries, work-related and service-learning assignments and activities, and engagement with electronic learning and teaching materials. Students will interact/collaborate with other undergraduates from a variety of backgrounds and cultures, addressing critical and creative material that reflects and promotes awareness of cultural diversity. Students can also undertake a period of sustained independent study through the third-year project. At all levels they are encouraged to read widely and critically, to write prolifically, and to incorporate information and communication technologies into their learning practices. This is in-keeping with our inclusive, heterodox approach. It is expected that students will become competent users of the University's VLE and develop digital literacy skills.

At the University of Wolverhampton, a variety of modes of assessment will be used to support and test your learning and progress and to help you develop capabilities that are valued beyond your University studies and into your working life. Your course may include a variety of assessment activities: Written examinations (including online examinations, open and closed book examinations and quizzes); Coursework (for example, essays, reports, portfolios, project proposals and briefs, CVs, poster presentation); Practical (for example, oral and video presentations, laboratory work, performances, practical skills assessment).

Students receive feedback within 4 weeks of submission via the University VLE; types of feedback can include feedback grids, comments on the submission portal, audio feedback. A sample of work is moderated by a member of the subject team. Students have the opportunity to discuss their feedback in one-to-one tutorials by appointment.

Assessment Methods:

At the University of Wolverhampton, a variety of modes of assessment will be used to support and test your learning and progress and to help you develop capabilities that are valued beyond your University studies and into your working life. Your course may include a variety of assessment activities:

Written examinations (including online examinations, open and closed book examinations and quizzes)
Coursework (for example, essays, reports, portfolios, project proposals and briefs, CVs, poster presentation)
Practical (for example, oral and video presentations, laboratory work, performances, practical skills assessment)

In the final year of your undergraduate degree, and at the end of your postgraduate degree, you are likely to be expected to write an extended piece of work or research, such as a dissertation or a practice-based piece of research.

Student Support:

University Learning Centres are the key source of academic information for students providing access to:

- Physical library resources (books, journal, DVDs etc.)
- Study areas to allow students to study in the environment that suits them best: Social areas, quiet and silent areas.
- A wide range of online information sources, including eBooks, e-journals and subject databases
- Academic skills support via the Skills for Learning programme

- Students on campus can attend workshops or ask for one-to-one help on a range of skills such as academic writing and referencing.
- Dedicated Subject Pages to enable you to explore key online information sources that are recommended for their studies.
- Physical access to local libraries both in UK and overseas via SCONUL and WorldCat agreements

Leave of Absence: The University allows breaks in learning of up to two years and there is a process for applying for a leave of absence, which can be accessed through your e:Vision account. Initially you will need to apply for the leave of absence, which could be for medical, parental or personal reasons. A short-term absence, such as annual leave, must not be recorded as a break. The course leader will consider, and where appropriate agree, the leave of absence application. A return date will be identified and agreed for a suitable point in the programme. Additional course fees may be incurred as a result of a leave of absence and you are advised to discuss this with the Faculty Student Services team prior to application.

Transfers: If you are considering transferring from your 4 Year integrated degree, after the Foundation year onto a course with a different course and duration, such as a 3 year degree, then the award authority is bound by the regulations to reassess your standard entitlement. This would mean that once you changes course, you would effectively be using up your additional year of funding (sometimes referred to as a gift year or a +1). This may affect you if they have any previous study or need to repeat a year in the future, unless the course you are transferring to also has a foundation year and you are going onto an advanced year.

The University also has a host of other services to support you, please take a look at the Student Support website: www.wlv.ac.uk/current-students/student-support/. If you have any questions, need help or advice then ASK@WLV is there for you: www.wlv.ac.uk/current-students/askwlv/.

Course Specific Support

You will be assigned an academic coach when you join our course, who will act as your personal tutor at levels 3 and 4. Your academic coach will provide academic support and pastoral care, to improve engagement and facilitate learning whilst enabling you to gain transferable skills for future employment. This role will transfer to a member of the academic staff in the Creative and Professional Writing team or Film Studies in levels 5 and 6 of your course. Your programme leader will also be available throughout the entirety of your degree to offer academic and pastoral support, and sign-posting to other student services.

Employability in the Curriculum:

Foundation Year:

There are many opportunities to explore your employment potential if you study with us, including modules that see you go out into the world of work, opportunities to attend events at employability weeks every spring semester and activities and assignments that help you to explore and demonstrate the transferable skills that you have gained; including the production of material that can be taken to interviews/used in application forms to allow you to show potential employers what you can do.

Undergraduate Programme:

This programme has been designed to embed employability within all of its modules, mindful of the business of writing, portfolio careers, and working freelance and working within the creative communities. This Learning Pathway programme is itself designed to offer a way of developing expertise in a specific medium of writing so that the student is better equipped to enter industry upon graduation. It also offers a definitive professional writing experience that offer numerous opportunities to write for specific career paths such as web copy, book blogging, feature writing, and editorial. Our modules are designed to include presentation work; project management; self-directed study; time management; workshop communication; collaborative project work; realising ideas from genesis to production. We offer students performance opportunities to showcase their work at literature festivals and open mics. Shaping our modules and course diet in this way concentrates on establishing transferable and adaptable skills and individuals.

Graduates of this integrated specialist programme have gone on to pursue a diversity of graduate careers in the public and private sector. Several now work in journalism; in education; in TV production. Some have opted for postgraduate study at prestigious institutions throughout the world, as well taking our own MA in Film Studies. CPW and Film graduates have placed work in regional and national publications.
