Entry Requirements:

Entry requirements are subject to regular review. The entry requirements applicable to a particular academic year will be published on the University website (and externally as appropriate e.g. UCAS)

2017 Entry

- DD from A level
- BTEC QCF Extended Diploma grade PPP, BTEC QCF Diploma grade MP
- Pass Access to HE Diploma (Full Award)
- If you've got other qualifications or relevant experience, please contact The Gateway for further advice before applying.
- International entry requirements and application guidance can be found here

Other Requirements

Students must have studied a minimum of two years post GCSE level. However, it is expected that some applicants will be mature students with work experience, who wish to further their career development. These applicants will be processed through standard procedures, which may involve an interview as part of the process. Please see <http://wlv.ac.uk/mature> for further information.

Applicants who do not meet the entry requirements may be offered an alternative course.

Distinctive Features of the Course:

- Encounter a blend of classic and canonical literature alongside contemporary authors and the world of popular culture highly distinctive in a post-1002 university;
- Work with a very friendly, welcoming staff who will do everything they possibly can to bring out the best in you;
- Meet with world-class literary scholars, award-winning novelists and poets; Travel to national and regional cultural events with your mates and explore new cultural horizons at the theatre, films, festivals and fairs, musical events;
- Attend lectures by internationally renowned scholars through the Royal Institute of Philosophy Public Lecture Series hosted by the university.
- Study abroad for a semester or year with English departments in France, Spain and Bulgaria.
- Take advantage of English or Philosophy-related work placements in years 2 and 3;
- Go on to a Masters degree in English, Popular Culture, Film or Media Studies, and consider entering our PhD programme.

You can develop the skills and knowledge that you need to study at undergraduate level, building on your strengths and working on your weaknesses, so that you can feel confident that by the end you are ready to commence a degree course, and to apply the skills to undertake the directed and independent learning which will help you to achieve your potential. This will allow you to embark on Level 4 study in an appropriate undergraduate discipline or combined award, confident that you have developed the skills and chosen the most relevant subject area(s) to specialise in, which will allow you to perform strongly at degree level and enhance your career aims.

Educational Aims of the Course:

This course gives you the opportunity to draw together two key traditions in the intellectual, political and cultural life of global civilisations. Throughout the course, you will be introduced to the key concepts and ideas that constitute current scholarship in both fields. You will also be encouraged to adopt and develop the critical consciousness that lies at the heart of both textual interpretation and philosophical enquiry.

The course features a balanced curriculum with modules exploring the relationship between literary value and social identities, as well as looking at key moments in the Victorian period, the early twentieth century and the 1960s where the relationship between literature, philosophy and social change were at their most pronounced. These will be complemented by modules on the philosophy of language, ethics, social justice and individual freedom.

Teaching, Learning and Assessment:

The traditional combination of lecture and seminar is accompanied and varied by other teaching and learning activities appropriate to particular modules. These include interactive lectures, individual and small group presentations, student-led seminars, small group and classroom exercises and discussions, writing workshops, forums and surgeries, work- related and service-learning assignments and activities, and engagement with electronic learning and teaching materials. Students will interact/collaborate with other undergraduates from a variety of backgrounds and cultures, addressing critical and creative material that reflects and promotes awareness of cultural diversity. Students can also undertake a period of sustained independent study through the third year project. At all levels they are encouraged to read widely and critically, to write prolifically, and to incorporate information and communication technologies into their learning practices.

Learning and Teaching Methods:

This data indicates the proportion of time in each year of study that students can expect to engage in the following activities (expressed as a percentage for each level).

Level	Teaching	Independent	Placement
3	20	80	0
4	21	76	3
5	24	76	0
6	21	79	0

Assessment Methods:

This data indicates the proportion of summative assessment in each year of study that will derive from the following: (expressed as a percentage for each level).

Level	Written Exams	Practical Exams	Coursework
3	8	0	92
4	15	8	77
5	17	7	77
6	8	0	92

Student Support:

The student support and guidance mechanisms are those provided by the standard University and School systems.

At Level 4 students are shown how to locate and access the University's 'Skills for Learning' pages, which also informs them where the Study Skills section in the Learning Centre is located. Directorate of Academic Services (DAS) provides general academic skills support to all students. They can attend a drop-in session for an individual, one-on-one discussion with a Learning and Skills Librarian for advice on areas such as academic writing, assignment planning, exam preparation and time management. In addition, there is a regular timetable of bookable workshops covering information and digital literacy skills, including academic referencing. Students are supported by a designated Liaison Librarian who is available to support research and project work. Further details on the DAS skills for learning page http://www.wlv.ac.uk/lib/skills_for_learning.aspx

Students with demonstrable need of a level of support greater than what can be provided in office hours are referred to the School of Humanities Academic Skills Support Team, as well as the series of study skills workshops offered in the Learning Centre. CANVAS Topics include study skills-related materials such as stylebooks and shared URLs that link to various on-line study skills websites (e.g., Purdue OWL and Monash Academic Literacy sites), and the Faculty of Arts Online Writing Lab was launched in 2015/16 specifically to address the gaps in student attainment of literacy skills.

Most research on academic literacies and study skills development advocates embedding them in the subject rather than through bolted-on learning experiences and much of the Level 4 programme is geared towards developing students' generic and subject-specific study skills. The Humanities' new Level 4 module From Student to Scholar focuses on strengthening a range of academic skills. Students are taught basic techniques in coursework planning, structuring, drafting, researching and revision through small workshops and 1-2-1 tutorials. Level 4 in-class activities and workshops, which are done in timed situations, and on-line critique circles and weekly postings teach students to become better time managers. At least two core modules at Level 4 require students to be reading and writing every week, and research shows that the 'little and often approach' has considerable impact on improving skills via repeated practice.

Formative assignments and learning activities offer students opportunities to write and revise using feedback prior to submission for assessment. Formative feedback for revision encourages students to develop and hone problem-solving skills, writing, and critical thinking (selecting rhetorical strategies for more persuasive argument/exposition). Additionally, many modules afford students numerous opportunities to engage in peer feedback activities and writing workshops, both in class and on-line which promote both collaborative and independent learning. Students receive timely and frequent feedback, providing personalised study skills support. Subject specific research skills are embedded in module learning activities - both in-class and out-of-class - and require students to use electronic and Learning Centre resources (e.g., Summons, e-books, LION, online/print newspapers and various search engines, databases, and electronic archives) to regularly locate information about authors, newspaper demographics and theoretical/critical texts to engage in problem-based learning (most writing tasks engage students in PBL) and complete assessment tasks.

Dedicated Subject Pages allow students to explore key online information sources that are recommended for their studies: English and Philosophy: www.wlv.ac.uk/lib/subjects/humanities

Employability in the Curriculum:

This degree equips students for employment in any area where skills of critical reason, reasoned argument, advanced language competence and dialogue are important. This degree has prepared students for employment in the media, local government and the corporate sector. Many graduates also go on to do masters degrees, or to gain teaching qualifications.
