Entry Requirements:

Entry requirements are subject to regular review. The entry requirements applicable to a particular academic year will be published on the University website (and externally as appropriate e.g. UCAS)

Typical Entry Requirements:

DD from A level

BTEC QCF Extended Diploma grade PPP, BTEC QCF Diploma grade MP

Pass Access to HE Diploma (Full Award)

If you've got other qualifications or relevant experience, please contact The Gateway for further advice before applying.

International entry requirements and application guidance can be found here

Other Requirements:

Students must have studied a minimum of two years post GCSE level. However, it is expected that some applicants will be mature students with work experience, who wish to further their career development. These applicants will be processed through standard procedures, which may involve an interview as part of the process. Please see <http://wlv.ac.uk/mature> for further information.

Younger applicants who do not meet the entry requirements may be asked to attend interview and/or to provide a sample of their academic writing, or they may be offered an alternative course.

Distinctive Features of the Course:

If you study with us you will:

Encounter a blend of classic and canonical literature alongside contemporary authors and the world of popular culture.

Work with a very friendly, welcoming staff who will do everything they possibly can to bring out the best in you.

Meet with world-class literary scholars, award-winning novelists and poets.

Have the opportunity to study abroad for a semester or year with English departments in France, Spain and Bulgaria.

Be able to take part in the subject's cultural enhancement programme, including trips with your mates to sites of regional, national and international interest, with regularly scheduled events on campus, theatre performances, visits to museums and galleries, stately homes, festivals and fairs, musical events.

Take advantage of English-related work placements in years 2 and 3 of the degree stage of your study; go on to a Masters degree in English, Popular Culture, or Media Studies, and consider entering our PhD programme.

At Foundation level, you can develop the skills and knowledge that you need to study at undergraduate level during the foundation year, building on your strengths and working on your weaknesses, so that you can feel confident that by the end you are ready to commence a degree course, and to apply the skills to undertake the directed and independent learning which will help you to achieve your potential. This will allow you to embark on Level 4 study in an appropriate undergraduate discipline or combined award, confident that you have developed the skills and chosen the most relevant subject area(s) to specialise in, which will allow you to perform strongly at degree level and enhance your career aims.

All of our foundation modules are taught in small subject-specific groups. Several of the modules on the foundation part of the degree are assessed via portfolio, so lots of tasks contribute to your final grade. This means that we can give you credit for the things that you do best, and give you support to identify areas of strength and areas for potential development.

For the foundation part of the degree you will study two taught modules per semester, in the autumn semester you will study one 40 credit study skills module, this is designed to help you get to grips with university life and to gain the skills you need to exceed at degree level. The other 20 credit module contains subject-specific content, so you begin learning your subject from day one. In the spring semester you will take one subject-specific module, plus your individual project, this guarantees you weekly one-to-one sessions with a subject-specific member of our team, in these sessions you will work with your tutor to develop your own project on what interests you the most. For the degree part of the course you will study three modules per semester.

Educational Aims of the Course:

This course will give you the opportunity to experience and explore a range of literary and non-literary texts from the Renaissance to the present day and from the Western Hemisphere to the West Midlands. It features a balanced curriculum of canonical writers and genres such as Shakespeare, the Romantics and the great Victorian novelists alongside the challenges to this tradition offered by Modernism, 1960s radicals and those marginalised by class, gender, sexuality and race.

Throughout the programme you will receive the theoretical, philosophical and contextual tools with which to critically examine the processes of literary production and reception, and to make informed judgements about literary value and cultural capital.

This course also provides you with a thorough grounding in the oral, written and digital communication skills essential for developing and sustaining a successful professional career in the twenty-first century. When you graduate you will have learned not only how to express yourself to best advantage, but also have strengthened confidence in your own voice and originality of perspective.

You will have access to a personal Academic Coach for the first two years of your time with us. This person will guide you through the early stages of your course.

Teaching, Learning and Assessment:

Learning activities include lectures, seminars, tutorials, and workshops. Assessment is via coursework and includes essays, essay-style pieces, exams and class tests, presentations and group work. Your Academic Coach and GTAs offer personal 1:1 support with assessment.

Assessment Methods:

At the University of Wolverhampton, a variety of modes of assessment will be used to support and test your learning and progress and to help you develop capabilities that are valued beyond your University studies and into your working life. Your course may include a variety of assessment activities:

Written examinations (including online examinations, open and closed book examinations and quizzes)
 Coursework (for example, essays, reports, portfolios, project proposals and briefs, CVs, poster presentation)
 Practical (for example, oral and video presentations, laboratory work, performances, practical skills)

assessment)

In the final year of your undergraduate degree, and at the end of your postgraduate degree, you are likely to be expected to write an extended piece of work or research, such as a dissertation or a practice-based piece of research.

Student Support:

General University support:

University Learning Centres are the key source of academic information for students. Learning Centres provide physical library resources (books, journal, DVDs etc.) and offer a range of study areas to allow students to study in the environment that suit them best: Social areas, quiet and silent areas. Learning Centres also provide access to wide range of online information sources, including eBooks, e-Journals and subject databases.

Learning Labs also provide students with academic skills support. Students on campus can attend workshops or ask for one-to-one help on a range of skills such as academic writing and referencing. Students can access a range of online skills material at: www.wlv.ac.uk/lib/skills

The University Student Support website offers advice on a variety of matters (careers, counselling, student union advice, etc.) Students can also access these services by booking appointment with the SU, careers, counselling services, etc.

Course Specific Support

Tutorials are available with lecturers and GTAs and can be booked by email, phone, or the university booking system. GTAs also offer drop-in sessions, which will be advertised to students in class and on the website. You will also be assigned an Academic Coach, this person will guide you through the early years of life at University and will support you closely in your first two years of study with us. Your Academic Coach will also offer 1:1 support with assignments and with adapting to life at University.

Employability in the Curriculum:

There are many opportunities to explore your employment potential if you study with us, including modules that see you go out into the world of work, opportunities to attend events at employability weeks every spring semester and activities and assignments that help you to explore and demonstrate the transferable skills that you have gained; including the production of material that can be taken to interviews/used in application forms to allow you to show potential employers what you can do.
