Distinctive Features of the Course:

The legal skills studied at Level 4 provide sound preparation for the further study of both core and option modules throughout the degree course.

There is the opportunity to continue to further enhance specific legal skills in interviewing, negotiation, debating, mooting etc. These are underpinned by the clear input required of ethics and also research.

Options are available to design the final part of the degree. Materials provided to the students for the core modules will have a corporate style with in-built study sections.

Pastoral support for students is an area of pride for the Faculty; there is a supportive culture with a large team of academic and student support staff to provide excellent pastoral care together with a welcoming academic environment, lecture rooms and facilities.

Our teaching is research-led ensuring that students' learning is focused on the latest debates in policy and practice in the subject areas being studied.

Educational Aims of the Course:

The BA (Hons) Business and Law course aims to provide students with knowledge of the key areas of both business and law subjects essential to a business and management environment. Students will gain familiarity with institutions and procedures in business management and law together with an understanding of how law and business fit together and operate. Students will demonstrate progression throughout their course of study and develop the ability to apply knowledge to problem situations and provide solutions to unresolved debates demonstrated over a wide number of issues within law, business and allied areas.

The subject areas of study have been carefully selected in collaboration with both schools, employers and representatives from legal and business organisations.

Teaching, Learning and Assessment:

There will be a variety of learning activities across the course at each level which will support students' achievement of the course learning outcomes, including;

- Lectures
- Seminars
- Interactive lectures
- Tutorials
- Small and large group work
- Student presentations (individual and group)
- Case studies
- Research activities/exercises
- Independent and guided study
- Collaborative and individual on-line activities
- Discussion forums
- Videos and DVDs
- Community-based learning through placement modules

Student support materials are available on the University VLE along with on-line activities, formative MCQs to support students' digital literacy along with any required elements of assignment writing by word-processing.

Group and individual tasks, student individual and team presentations and seminar work will support students' enterprising ideas.

Assessment Methods:

At the University of Wolverhampton, a variety of modes of assessment will be used to support and test your learning and progress and to help you develop capabilities that are valued beyond your University studies and into your working life. Your course may include a variety of assessment activities:

Written examinations (including online examinations, open and closed book examinations and quizzes)
Coursework (for example, essays, reports, portfolios, project proposals and briefs, CVs, poster presentation)
Practical (for example, oral and video presentations, laboratory work, performances, practical skills assessment)

In the final year of your undergraduate degree, and at the end of your postgraduate degree, you are likely to be expected to write an extended piece of work or research, such as a dissertation or a practice-based piece of research.

Student Support:

All students will have a personal tutor to support their progress throughout their course. Study skills tutors provide additional learning support and resources for students. There is a Directorate of Academic Support available to advise on academic study skills. Students are further supported by dedicated administrative support staff who are aligned to courses and or subject areas.

The development of both academic and legal skills is at the heart of this course with the inclusion of the Applied Legal Research and Skills module at level four through which the key legal and study skills will be introduced. These will also be embedded through seminars at all levels. The level four modules will be a vehicle for the development of the skills which students will need to complete the course successfully.

More advanced legal skills are covered at Level 5 and where appropriate on line activities will support all learning

One-to-one consultation appointments are available, study-group classes and workshops as well as re-sit preparation sessions shortly before re-sits are taking place.

Students will receive feedback formally and also informally throughout the modules and the course through written feedback and where appropriate electronically for both formative and summative assessments. The focus of the feedback will be constructive and also advice-based to indicate best changes to make in style of study and delivery to progress and enhance the students learning.

When undertaking their Research Project students will be supported by an allocated academic tutor.

Employability in the Curriculum:

Graduates may enter a range of occupations including those closely aligned to the subject discipline including; Management, Finance, Marketing, Trading Standards, Health & Safety, Local Authority, Civil Service, Banking, Insurance or work in public or private sector management. Graduates may also opt to continue their study undertaking a postgraduate degree.
