Entry Requirements:

Entry requirements are subject to regular review. The entry requirements applicable to a particular academic year will be published on the University website (and externally as appropriate e.g. UCAS)

Distinctive Features of the Course:

Sport is part of everyone's life and the new course will offer you the unique opportunity to focus your journalistic ambitions on the sport of your choice – from cricket, rugby or football to minority sports. The course will also focus on sport and wellbeing, which will enable you to perform roles in different areas of the sport industry. You will be introduced to a full range of modern media and will adopt real-world working strategies (news days), produce ground-breaking audio, video, web and social media content and benefit from work placements that will enable you to enter the job market with the most up-to-date and relevant knowledge and expertise. This dynamic course will teach you how to produce compelling sports content for both traditional and emerging media platforms. You will gain the core journalistic research and writing skills as well as studying media law and ethics. At the same time, you will develop a multi-platform mind-set, producing print, radio and TV news, reports, features, documentaries, as well as creating blogs and podcasts, digital photos, audio/video stories and content for websites and mobile devices.

Educational Aims of the Course:

BA (Hons) Sport Journalism is a practice-based and industry-focused course that offers students the unique opportunity to focus their journalistic ambitions on the sport of their choice – from cricket, rugby or football to minority sports. The course also focuses on sport and wellbeing, which enables our students to perform roles in different areas of the sport industry. Working in our current industry fit facilities, students will be introduced to a full range of modern media and will adopt real-world working strategies (news days), produce ground-breaking audio, video, web and social media content and benefit from work placements that will enable them to enter the job market with the most up-to-date and relevant knowledge and expertise. This dynamic course will introduce students to a range of techniques and genres, covering everything from writing a basic match report to presenting their own Radio/TV sports show and producing sports features and short documentaries. Students will gain the core journalistic research and writing skills as well as studying media law and ethics and will develop a multi-platform mind-set, producing print, radio and TV news, reports, features, documentaries as well as creating blogs and podcasts, digital photos, audio/video stories and content for websites and mobile devices.

Teaching, Learning and Assessment:

Learning will take place in the classroom in the form of lectures, seminars and workshops but also outside in the form of visits to local broadcasters and independent learning, a key skill for the practice of multimedia journalism. Students will gain key industry skills through developing multimedia artefacts in real time and to live, or as - live, industry provided briefs. These activities will test students' ability to work effectively in a group and enables them to experience real working practices in a protected environment. All three levels also encourage significant work outside of the classroom.

Activities are designed to mirror the academic learning outcomes of each level and the current multiplatform news industry working practices. The Sports Journalism-specific modules enable interaction between students and industry-relevant activities in class. Practitioners from the industry will occasionally be asked to assist students or deliver guest lectures.

Learning activities will include:

Lectures,

Group work,

Live or as –live – News days

Practical and Technical on TV and radio news productions (working to deadlines),

News writing for multiple platforms: print, online, radio and TV.

Presenting – For TV and radio in a professional context,

Reflective Practice,

Work Placements

Multimedia production

Editing workshops

Critical analysis of media and academic texts,

Independent project work

Industry visits

Level 4 Assessment will take the form of:

1. Portfolios and e-portfolios and reflective work: examining and gaining awareness of sports journalistic productions and texts for print, TV, Radio and Online media.

1. Individual research report/essays.
2. Presentations and group work productions.

Level 5 Assessment will take the form of:

1. Individual essays and reflective reports

2. Portfolios and e-portfolios and reflective work: examining and gaining awareness of sports journalistic productions.

3. Group work presentations and productions.

4. Practical assignments – generating content for multimedia platforms (audio, video, texts, photograph and other media products).

5. Producing as-live media content (radio, TV and online).

Level 6 Assessment will take the form of:

1. Half year individual study (practical or written project) to produce either: A multimedia news production with accompanying documentation and process log and reflection or: An academically rigorous critically engaged analysis of sports journalism processes/products incorporating current debates and theoretical frameworks.
2. Individual research essays and reflective reports
3. Practical assignments to produce and manage multimedia content for multiple platforms
4. Producing as-live media content (radio, TV and online).
5. Work placements/mentoring with industry partners.

Support for Learning:

1) University Learning Centres are the key source of academic information for students. Learning Centres provide physical library resources (books, journal, DVDs etc.) and offer a range of study areas to allow students to study in the environment that suit them best: Social areas, quiet and silent areas.

Learning Centres also provide access to wide range of online information sources, including eBooks, e-Journals and subject databases. For more information, please visit: www.wlv.ac.uk/lib/info/welcome

Learning Centres also provide students with academic skills support via the Skills for Learning programme. Students on campus can attend workshops or ask for one-to-one help on a range of skills such as academic writing and referencing. Students can access a range of online skills material at: www.wlv.ac.uk/lib/skills

The University Student Support website offers advice on a variety of matters (careers, counselling, student union advice, etc.) <https://www.wlv.ac.uk/study-here/student-support/> Students can also access these services by booking appointment with the SU, careers, counselling services, etc.

2) In addition to the material provided in class and on the Virtual Learning Platform (CANVAS), the Faculty offers tailored academic and pastoral support to students. Students' first port of call is their personal tutor (each student is allocated a personal tutor at the beginning of the academic year), but they can also talk to module leaders, course leader, school administrator, graduate interns and graduate teaching assistants, whose details can be found in the course guide. Advice will be given through the induction process and then through appointments throughout the year, in addition to classes and tutorials. Students can expect to receive support and guidance in the area of Personal Development Planning, to understand better their learning process, have the skills and understanding to act on the feedback.

Lecturers will provide personalised feedback for formative and summative assessments. On occasions, lecturers may provide generalised feedback to the whole group on points relating to an assessment.

3) Dedicated Subject Pages allow students to explore key online information sources that are recommended for their studies.
