For students applying from Wales, Scotland, Ireland and the rest of Europe, we gladly accept equivalent qualifications. In exceptional circumstances, students will be considered for entry based on equivalent experience or learning.

Distinctive Features of the Course:

MA Digital and Visual Communications is a diverse and vibrant course in the Wolverhampton School of Art. It embraces a wide range of specialist media and creative practices including (but not limited to): - Graphic Design; Illustration; Photography, Games Design; Design for Advertising, and Animation. The course is taught by experienced designers and creative practitioners with subject knowledge across a broad range of contemporary Digital and Visual Communications.

The final Independent Study module requires students to present their work to an external audience in an appropriate format. This is normally in the form of an exhibition, symposium or online presentation. This offers an opportunity to present work to industry professionals, fellow practitioners, researchers and other interested companies and organisations.

The Wolverhampton School of Art has been recognised for its research excellence. There is a vibrant and supportive research community within The Wolverhampton School of Art that provides excellent enhancement to studies.

The integration of research methods into the Course gives the necessary preparation for the Masters Project and provides an opportunity for progression onto MPhil and PhD study.

Contextual lectures around practice methodologies and theories, movements and concepts will enable students to develop a deeper knowledge and understanding of contemporary debates around digital and visual communications practice.

Exhibition and study visits provide an exciting opportunity for students to engage with a wide range of contemporary digital and visual communications practice.

Specialist facilities and workshops provide students with an opportunity to develop a range of technical skills and produce work to a high professional standard.

Visiting speakers and professional designers provide context, advice and industry knowledge.

Educational Aims of the Course:

The course aims to produce considered creative practitioners who are able to innovate while questioning and interrogating existing values and traditions. The ethos behind the programme is to support and assist student personal development as a contemporary visual communicator. The course has a strong framework of practice-based work underpinned with contextual modules intended to provide a sound basis for further research and professional practice.

The course is delivered full time across one year (3 semesters):

Semester 1 (Re-appraisal, experimentation and analysis)

The focus of semester one is to provide students with an understanding of what is expected at postgraduate level. Students will reflect on their existing knowledge and skills while being introduced to a range of themes intended to extend their appreciation and awareness of critical and contextual issues.

Semester 2 (Development and Consolidation)

Students will continue to develop critical and contextual skills that will inform the evolution of their creative practice. The focus here is on defining and developing practice building on earlier research, experimentation and idea generation. Modules will enable students to interrogate and more clearly define a proposal of study and to develop strategies and methodologies to facilitate its successful conclusion.

Semester 3 (Realisation)

In this semester students will undertake a Masters Project that will enable them to realise their potential as a digital and visual communicator. Self-authored, practice-led enquiry will drive the negotiated project in collaboration with course tutors.

The course is delivered part time across two years (6 semesters):

Year One (semesters 1, 2 and 3) - (Re-appraisal, experimentation and analysis)

Year Two (semesters 4, 5 and 6) - (Development and consolidation, and realisation)

Module Code: 7VC013 – EXPERIMENTAL PROCESSES IN DIGITAL AND VISUAL COMMUNICATIONS PRACTICE (Full time and part time - semesters 1 and 2)

Module Code: 7VA003 - CREATIVE METHODOLOGIES IN CONTEXT (Full time and part time - semester 1)

Module Code: 7VC014 – DEVELOPMENTAL PROCESSES IN MA DIGITAL AND VISUAL COMMUNICATIONS PRACTICE (Full time – semesters 1 and 2; Part time – semesters 4 and 5)

Module Code: 7VC015 – CONTEMPORARY CONTEXTS IN MA DIGITAL AND VISUAL COMMUNICATIONS (Full time and part time - semester 2)

Module Code 7VC016 – REALISATION IN DIGITAL AND VISUAL COMMUNICATIONS (Full time – semester 3; Part time - semester 6)

The course is designed with the University of Wolverhampton Inclusive Framework in mind. The course ensures that all students have an equal opportunity to learn and succeed. The design of assessments is subject to internal scrutiny ensuring fairness in assessment for all students.

There are two types of assessment used on the course:

Formative assessment, which includes peer group critiques and tutorials that serve to guide, to encourage and to challenge. Advice is focused around agreed areas of good practice and identified areas for improvement, which will serve to support you in an agreed developmental strategy.

Summative assessment normally involves a student presentations and portfolio submissions/public exhibitions being formally assessed against learning outcomes. In contextual submissions you will be assessed through dissertations and presentations. You will receive written and, in most cases, verbal feedback after every summative assessment.

Course Specific Assessment:

1. Practical Submissions

Module Code 7VC013: Experimental Processes in Digital and Visual Communications Practice (Formative/Summative)

Module Code 7VC014: Developmental Processes in Digital and Visual Communications Practice (Formative/Summative)

Module Code 7VC016: Realisation in Digital and Visual Communications (Formative/Summative)

Practical submissions include a portfolio of practical outcomes with a written reflective overview that articulates the development, processes and research involved in the production of the practical outcomes.

You will be expected to demonstrate advanced levels of:

- Production of artwork(s) through the selection of appropriate materials, techniques and methodologies.
- Research and contextualisation in terms of your ability to independently locate appropriate research and external points of reference to extend your experience and study.
- Reflection in terms of your ability to evaluate a project, consider your role in its success or failure and action plan for the future.
- Presentational strategies in terms of developing an increasing awareness of the contexts and audiences for your creative practice and an ability to present your work and documentation appropriately.
- Practice submissions will include written assessments in the form of a Reflective Overview of Practice an aspect of which will be presented to your peer group. This part of the submission will follow School assessment guidelines for word count.

2.Contextual Submissions (Dissertation/essay)

Module Code 7AD003: Creative Methodologies in Context (Formative/Summative)

Module Code 7VC015: Contemporary Contexts in Digital and Visual Communications (Formative/Summative)

Module Code 7VC016: Realisation in Digital and Visual Communications – Optional (Formative/Summative)

Contextual submissions include a dissertation/essay that addresses research into a selected area of creative practice.

You will be expected to demonstrate advanced levels of:

- Formulate and manage an advanced independent approach to your research and be able to rationalise different concepts and ideas in order to develop research into key contemporary theoretical issues in relation to Digital and Visual Communications practice.
- Develop and articulate a sophisticated understanding and knowledge of key contemporary theoretical issues in relation to Digital and Visual Communications practice.
- Research and contextualisation in terms of your ability to independently locate appropriate research and external points of reference to extend your experience and study.

Contextual submissions will include written analysis in the form of a dissertation/essay, an aspect of which will be presented to your peer group. This submission will follow School assessment guidelines for word count.

Assessment Methods:

At the University of Wolverhampton, a variety of modes of assessment will be used to support and test your learning and progress and to help you develop capabilities that are valued beyond your University studies and into your working life. Your course may include a variety of assessment activities:

Written examinations (including online examinations, open and closed book examinations and quizzes)
Coursework (for example, essays, reports, portfolios, project proposals and briefs, CVs, poster presentation)
Practical (for example, oral and video presentations, laboratory work, performances, practical skills assessment)

In the final year of your undergraduate degree, and at the end of your postgraduate degree, you are likely to be expected to write an extended piece of work or research, such as a dissertation or a practice-based piece of research.

Student Support:

General University support:

University Learning Centres are the key source of academic information for students. Learning Centres provide physical library resources (books, journal, DVDs etc.) and offer a range of study areas to allow students to study in the environment that suit them best: Social areas, quiet and silent areas. Learning Centres also provide access to wide range of online information sources, including eBooks, e-Journals and subject databases. Learning Centres also provide students with academic skills support via the Skills for Learning programme. Students on campus can attend workshops or ask for one-to-one help on a range of skills such as academic writing and referencing. Students can access a range of online skills material at:

www.wlv.ac.uk/lib/skills.

The University also has a host of other services to support you, please take a look at the Student Support website: www.wlv.ac.uk/current-students/student-support/. If you have any questions, need help or advice then ASK@WLV is there for you: www.wlv.ac.uk/current-students/askwlv/.

Course Specific Support

The Personal Tutor provides academic counselling and will be accessible on an appointment basis to discuss requests for extensions, requests for extenuating circumstances, and general concerns about study.

1. Information on Canvas includes lecture presentations, module briefings, useful information and resources.
2. Assessment includes formative elements such as verbal and written feedback for work in progress.
3. The department of Learning & Information Services (LIS) provides general academic skills support to all students who can make an appointment with a study skills advisor for advice on areas such as academic writing, assignment planning, exam preparation and time management. In addition, there is a regular timetable of drop-in and bookable "InfoBite" workshops covering information and digital literacy skills, including academic referencing. School of Media students are supported by a designated Liaison Librarian who is available to support research and project work. Further details on the LIS website www.wlv.ac.uk/lib
4. Box of Broadcasts available as online resource.
5. Wolverhampton School of Art workshops are available to students (eg. screenprinting, Risoprint, cyanotype, etc.).
6. A range of equipment is available for hire from the Media Stores.

Employability in the Curriculum:

Employment opportunities after the course include:

- Self-employment as a Digital and Visual Communicator (Illustrator, Graphic Designer, Animator, Photographer, Web Designer, Games Designer, Video Maker/Producer etc).
- Employment in education, public sector or the creative industries.
- Advancement in current employment: education, public sector or the creative industries.

Careers, Enterprise and the Workplace offer advice and support to assist students in securing professional practice through involvement in company consultancy, freelance work or live projects. Visiting speakers from the creative sector also offer valuable insights into employment in industry.

Employability is embedded in module 7VC014 in semester 2 (for full time students) and semester 5 (for part time students) to help prepare students for the workplace as they near the end of the course. As such, the course meets the requirements of the 'Graduate Attributes Framework' of Vision 2030.
